

Q. What was your occupation? A. A manufacturer of plate glass.
Q. How old are you? A. I am eighty-three years old. I was born in 1820.
Q. Do you know the defendant, Hannah Elias? A. Yes.
Q. When did you first meet her? A. I don't remember.
Q. When? A. Oh, long ago. It was when the volunteer firemen came here from San Francisco.
Q. Can you tell us within ten years of when you met this woman? A. I don't know.
Q. (By the Court) Is it ten fifteen or twenty years? A. I don't know.
Q. You said you first met her in a disorderly house in West Twenty-seventh street? A. Yes.
Q. You have supported her during the last ten years? A. I don't know. I gave her large sums of money.
Q. How long after you first met her did you see her? A. I don't know. She advertised about a rheumatism cure.
Q. Any name on that advertisement? A. No, but I found it was the same woman.
Q. When was that? A. Within ten years.
Q. You have met her frequently since? Your relations have been more than that of a massage patient? A. I don't know.
Q. The fact is she has been your mistress? A. I don't know.
Q. You have been on most friendly relations with her? A. Yes, very friendly.
Q. Have you not given her hundreds of thousands of dollars within the last ten years? A. I don't know.

MRS. ELIAS GLARED AT HIM.
Mr. Platt sat cross-legged in the witness chair, with his thin, bony hands clasped in his lap. His frame quivered with excitement at times, and his deep eyes blinked when he made an effort to recall dates and events. Mrs. Elias sat with clasped hands beside her counsel and glared at the old man. He tried to avoid her looks.
Q. Do you remember beginning an action in the Supreme Court? A. I don't know.
Q. Do you know what a national law is? A. Yes.
Q. Did you start an action against Mrs. Elias? A. I authorized my lawyer to begin an action.
Q. You had to sign papers then? A. Yes.
Q. You had to swear to certain facts? A. I don't know.
Q. Go easy with him, Mr. Rand, admonished the Court.
"Yes, Judge, I will treat him easy," replied the Assistant District Attorney.

Q. Don't you recall signing papers in a civil case? A. I don't remember.
Q. I ask you now, have you, since June, 1896, paid that woman more than $600,000? A. I can't remember the sum.
Mr. Rand produced a memorandum, which specified the amount, but this Mr. Platt refused to recognize.
Q. (By the Court) Did you keep memoranda when you paid her money? A. Yes, I always did.

HE PAID HER SOMETHING.
Q. Did you pay her anything last May? A. I have a recollection of paying her something.
Q. How much? I don't know.
Q. Did you go to her house? A. Yes.
Q. Where? A. Lenox avenue.
Q. She told you she was about to be sued?
Mr. Platt then asked Mr. Rand to read the newspaper clipping.
"I don't care to read the newspaper clipping," said Mr. Rand. "I want to get all the facts from you."

Q. Did you start a civil suit against this woman? A. Ask my lawyer. I want to talk with him.
"No, I don't want to talk with your lawyer. I want you to tell me what you know."
The appearance of Mr. Platt and his answers were pathetic. He was feeble and weak.
Q. Did you start a civil suit against this woman? A. Yes.
Q. Did she say who was going to sue her? A. I believe she did.
Q. Wasn't it a man named Matthews? A. It might have been something like that.
Q. Was it a doctor who was going to sue her? A. I don't remember.
Q. Was it a man named Dr. Kraft? A. Well, I wouldn't be sure about that.
Q. Did she ask you for any particular sum of money? A. She wanted $5,000 and then $2,500. I told her she might as well take it all at once.
Q. Did she say that if she was sued she would have to testify as to her relations with you? A. Yes.

MAGISTRATE TO THE RESCUE.
Q. What were your relations with her? A. Business relations.
Q. What sort of business relations? Those of a man and his mistress? The old man looked appealingly toward the Court. Magistrate Ommen came to his rescue. He was not compelled to answer.
Q. Did she say anything about a man being in the other room who was going to sue and bring out the facts about your relations with her? A. Yes, she said there was a man there.
Q. Who did she say it was? A. A man named Daly.
Q. When you gave her this money did she promise to shield you if she testified in court? A. Yes.
Q. Did she threaten you with exposure if you did not give her the money? A. Yes.
Q. Were you afraid she would expose you if you did not pay her? A. Yes; she said the newspapers would get the story and then I would be ruined.
Q. What did she say would happen if you didn't pay her the money? A. She said that if the suit got into the court the newspapers would print it and my two married daughters would hear of my relations with her.

SON-IN-LAW KNEW ABOUT IT.
Q. You knew your son-in-law knew about it? A. Yes.
Q. You had been down to see a lawyer about giving up the $7,500? A. I don't remember.
Q. You went down to Liberty street to see your family lawyer, Mr. Chambers? A. Oh, yes.
Q. And your brother Isaac was with you? A. Yes.
Q. That was last February? A. Yes.
Mr. Rand handed the witness a copy of the complaint in the criminal suit and asked him to read the count which accused the defendant of extortion.
Q. You swear to that? A. Yes.
Q. Did you give the $7,500 to her willingly? A. No, because I thought I had to. She told me that unless I did there would be trouble.
Q. She told you that before? A. Yes.
Q. Every time you gave her money. A. Sometimes.
Q. Did you usually give it to her willingly? A. Yes.
Q. (By the Court) How many times did she say Mr. Daly was in the next room and demanded money? A. Half a dozen.
Mr. Rand dropped his questioning here and had a few words with the Court. Mrs. Elias sat at perfect ease and smiled half archly at the witness.
Q. Did she ever come to your house? A. Once.
Q. Did she ever send there for you? A. Yes.
Q. How often? A. I can't remember.
Q. Did you ever try to part with her? A. Yes, last year I tried to part with her for good.
Q. Did you meet her later? A. Yes.
Q. Did you go to her house? A. Yes, she sent for me.
Q. Why? A. She said she was being sued again and that I would have to pay the claim or my name would come out.
Q. Did you ever have any papers or letters from the woman? A. Yes, many. Her lawyer came to me and said they were important and should not become public. I gave them to him and he said he would destroy them.

WAS AFRAID OF TROUBLE.
Q. (By the Court) You testified that the reason you gave up the money was that you were afraid your name would come out in a suit. Again you said you were not afraid of her. Which is it? A. Well, I was afraid of trouble.
Q. What do you mean by trouble? A. That's just a general word I use.
Mr. Platt was then excused from the witness-stand.
Lynn C. Warren, attorney for Mr. Platt, was then called to the stand.

SULLY CREDITORS MEET.

David H. Miller Elected Trustee After a Fight.

At a meeting of the creditors of Daniel J. Sully & Co., held this afternoon in the office of McGrath & Co., reference in bankruptcy, David H. Miller was elected trustee by a vote of eighty-six claims representing $2,200,000.
Before Mr. Miller was finally elected, counsel for the minority creditors made strenuous objections to the preferential claims of Cotton Exchange creditors, who were voting for him. Mr. La Prentis received thirty-eight votes from creditors, representing claims for $97,111. After the election the meeting adjourned.

JOHN R. PLATT, ALLEGED VICTIM OF MRS. ELIAS, WHO APPEARED IN COURT THIS AFTERNOON.

Mr. Rand asked Mr. Warren if he could corroborate any of Mr. Platt's testimony. Mr. Warren said he had no personal knowledge of his business. Then Mr. Osborne jumped up and said he would make Mr. Warren his witness.
Q. (By Mr. Osborne)—Did Mr. Nanz give you any letters? A. I refuse to answer.
Mr. Osborne forced the issue, and Warren was obliged to answer. He answered in the affirmative.
Q. Will you present them? A. Yes, to the Magistrate.
Q. For his personal inspection? A. No, for the good of the case.
Q. Did Mr. Nanz ever deliver you some letters? A. Yes.
Q. Some of these were delivered by Mr. DeKraft? A. I refuse to answer.
Q. Did you get a letter signed by Mr. DeKraft? A. I refuse to answer.
Q. You know that the letter to Mr. DeKraft was to the effect that unless Mrs. Elias gave up certain sums of money the relations between Mr. Platt and Mrs. Elias would be exposed? A. No, sir.
Q. How long have you known of the relations of Mr. Platt and Mrs. Elias? A. Only since last year.
Q. You did not know where the money came from to pay her lawyers? A. No, sir.

CASH BAIL PUT UP FOR RELEASE OF MRS. ELIAS.
Thirty thousand dollars in cash bail was deposited at the City Chamberlain's office late this afternoon for Mrs. Hannah Elias. The money was taken to the City Chamberlain by James W. Osborne and Washington Brauns, the lawyers for the negress. They carried in a small satchel, and this frees Mrs. Elias at the conclusion of to-day's examination, so far as the criminal action is concerned. The lawyers had with them two other $10,000 bills, to be put up as bail in the civil proceedings. They could not deposit this, as the civil order of arrest has never been served on the woman. It was arranged between the lawyers and Deputy Sheriff Waigering that some time during the afternoon the latter will serve the order of arrest on the negress. When this technicality has been disposed of, Mr. Osborne will deposit the other $20,000 with the Sheriff and Mrs. Elias will be free to go to her Central Park West residence or anywhere else she wishes.

Mr. Osborne was asked who put up the bail for the woman. He said that his lips were sealed as to the identity of the friend who had come forward so opportunely.
"But," he added, "the money was not put up by any other interested protector. Just say that friends of Mrs. Elias came to her rescue."
Washington Brauns passed through Exchange place to Mr. Osborne's office in company with Augustus C. Nanz. Mr. Brauns was carrying the satchel containing $50,000. He came direct from a bank. Mr. Nanz was Mrs. Elias's counsel at one time.

STATEMENT BY LAWYER WARREN.
Lyman G. Warren, Platt's attorney, said to-day in regard to the statement of Augustus C. Nanz yesterday that he introduced Warren to Mr. Platt:
"It is true that Nanz did introduce me to Mr. Platt in February, 1896. At that time he was threatened by a Jefferson Market Court lawyer named King, who represented Matthew C. Davis, the husband of Mrs. Elias. Davis wanted to sue for the alienation of his wife's affections and had gone so far as to have a summons in the case served. I advised a settlement of the case and we paid Davis $150.
"I met Mrs. Elias just twice and then through Nanz. Once I represented her with Nanz in a civil court proceedings, where a plumber was suing for $200. Nanz paid that. Once I was in her house for five minutes with Nanz on the way to court. That was the fifty-third street house. "As to money recently secured from Mr. Platt I will say that she got $15,000 the day before Christmas, and that two days after the murder of Andrew H. Green she got $4,200. She got $15,000 during the month of May."

KERNS KNOCKED OUT BY DEUFASS.
PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—Ed Deufass made his re-appearance in the ring last night after an absence of over two years. He succeeded in knocking out Bob Kerns, of Kansas, who was substituted for Billy Devine. Deufass showed his old-time punch and was quite fast despite his long lay-off. Kerns proved game but that was all. He was unable to land effectively on Deufass, and his blows lacked steam. In the third round Deufass dropped the lad from Kansas for the count, and after two minutes of the sixth and final round he succeeded in putting Kerns to sleep with a terrific right to the point of the jaw. Young Ernie, the boxing number of the evening, was a fast and interesting law. In the semi-wind up with honors in favor of Ernie, he proving entirely too clever for Devine.

WILLIAMS, TIGERS' CAPTAIN.
PRINCETON, N. J., June 10.—R. E. Williams, of the class of 1905, of Chicago, has been elected captain of the Princeton track team for the coming year. He is Princeton's best runner, having won the mile run in the intercollegiate meet in his Sophomore year. In the recent intercollegiate meet at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, Williams won second place in both the mile and half-mile races.

ABANDONED INFANT FOUND.
Baby Left Under Porch Nearly Dead When Discovered.
Frederic Grant, janitor at No. 412 Lenox avenue, to-day found a male child, probably one day old, under the stairway near her door. It was crying feebly and was nearly dead from cold. The janitor took it into the house, wrapped it in a warm quilt and then summoned Patrolman Nolan, who summoned an ambulance from the Harlem Hospital.
Dr. Lawrence ordered the babe sent to Bellevue Hospital and the police began an investigation with a view to learning the parentage of the child.

ROSE COGHAN'S NARROW ESCAPE.
Well-Known Actress Thrown from Her Cab on Way to Chicago and Loses Contents of a Theatre Trunk.
Rose Coghlan, the actress, had a narrow escape from death this afternoon. A cab in which she was riding being overturned by a collision with a heavily loaded coal wagon.
Miss Coghlan, who lives at the Sherman, had just left her home and was being driven to the Erie ferry to take a train to Chicago, where she will appear in her sketch. She was late in leaving home and instructed the cab driver to get to the ferry as quickly as possible.
At Broadway and Forty-seventh street the cab collided with the coal wagon and Miss Coghlan was thrown to the ground. The cab horse was so badly hurt that it had to be shot, but Miss Coghlan escaped with a shaking up.
Miss Coghlan's theatre trunk was on the top of the vehicle beside the driver and its contents were scattered to the four winds. Miss Coghlan quickly gathered up her things and proceeded to the ferry with what part of her things that could be rescued.

MAN SHOP-LIFTER CAUGHT IN THE ACT.
Harry Harris, twenty-seven years old, who declared he was a salesman, but who would not give his real name, and who is said by the police to be a clever shoplifter with a record in Philadelphia and other cities, was arraigned in Jefferson Market Court to-day, charged with stealing a valuable lace bedspread from a Sixth avenue department store. He was examined and found guilty by Magistrate Crane in $500 bail for trial.
Daniel D. Kash says he saw Harris appropriate a Renaissance spread valued at $25.00, and place it under his coat after giving a fraudulent order for goods. Kash called Central Office Detective Rein and Becker, who were in the store, and they arrested Harris. When Harris was taken to Detective Headquarters he confessed to Inspector McCluskey that he had taken various articles from the store, including a lace spread valued at $100.
It was found that Harris is under parole from General Sessions on a charge of stealing silverware from a lower Broadway house, and it is said he is wanted in Philadelphia for shoplifting.

In his confession to the detective, Harris implicated Rosie Fried, twenty-six years old, of No. 117 Fourth avenue, a young woman, who was arrested last night. The woman, handsomely gown and with a car and a half diamond set in a front tooth, made a striking appearance in court to-day. She was arraigned by the Magistrate, who said there was no evidence upon which to hold her.

"My niece's little baby boy, two years old, was so badly afflicted with eczema that he needed constant watching. It was all over his face and he scratched the sores constantly. Mornings his clothes would be stained with blood, and his face and hands would be covered. His family never could take him out, as his face was always full of large sores. They had medical treatment, and tried everything they heard of. She commenced using the Cuticura Remedies last spring and found that at last she had a wonderful healer. The sores left his face and he was entirely cured, and now his face is as smooth and rosy as though no sore had ever been there to mar it."

A general alarm was sent out this afternoon from Police Headquarters for the owner of 240 shares of miscellaneous stock found in the subway station at Fourth avenue and Twenty-fifth street.
The stock bore the name Mrs. R. Latogensy, who in all probability dropped it while inspecting the subway station.

BABIES ON FIRE.
With Hobling, Burning, Scaly Humors of the Skin
Instantly Relieved by Baths with Cuticura Soap
And Gentle Applications of Cuticura Ointment.
Instant relief and refreshing sleep for skin-tormented babies, and rest for tired, fretted mothers, in warm baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, and surest of emollients, to be followed in severe cases by mild doses of Cuticura Resolvent.
"My niece's little baby boy, two years old, was so badly afflicted with eczema that he needed constant watching. It was all over his face and he scratched the sores constantly. Mornings his clothes would be stained with blood, and his face and hands would be covered. His family never could take him out, as his face was always full of large sores. They had medical treatment, and tried everything they heard of. She commenced using the Cuticura Remedies last spring and found that at last she had a wonderful healer. The sores left his face and he was entirely cured, and now his face is as smooth and rosy as though no sore had ever been there to mar it."
